enforced shall be considered a separate offense.

GYPSY RIGO SEEKS FAIR SEARCHLIGHT

LINKED FOR LIFE IN GOLF JACKET

Storm, Friends and Sleepy Ministers Delayed Semple S. Scott and Miss Girle Johnston.

MARRIED IN WEE HOURS

When Friends Left Car at Country Club, They Had to Do the Same.

Raging storms, railing friends and sleepy clergymen could not prevent, though they did delay, the marriage of Semple S. Scott and Miss Girle Johnston, who, succeeding in their second attempt at elopement, were married in Clayton at 1:30 o'clock in the morning.

So determined were the elopers to steal a march on their friends that Miss Johnston sought to disguise her plans by wearing a golf jacket. They walked a mile and a half in the dark, taking a circuitous route to Clayton to avoid meeting their friends.

Mr. Scott belongs to the exclusive set of St. Louis. He is a clubman and a member of a prominent family. His bride is a native of Union City, Tenn., and, with her mother, has come to St. Louis to reside.

Mr. Scott's mother, Mrs. Ashley D. Scott, and his two sisters, are in Europe, ignorant of the romance which has just culminated. Ashley D. Scott, a brother of the bridegroom, when told of the marriage Wednesday, was so surprised that he was unable to make any comment.

It was the original intention of Scott and Miss Johnson to be married last Friday.
After leaving a party of friends at one of the summer gardens, the bridegroom, who for the past month had been before the French Journey's end and the storm set in with such force, that they returned to the city without getting out of the car. The elements, although serving to frustrate the plans of the couple for the time, did not discourage them, and they only awaited another opportunity.

But of course," writes Rigo from that dear Paris, where he is the leader of an orchestra of five pieces. "I could not think of traveling such a distance on such a mission except for a great sum of money."

Secretary Stevens will not put a special delivery stamp on his reply.

One-Time Husband of Princess Chi- may Wants to Lead His Five- Piece Orchestra Here.

RIGO, the gypsy husband of the Princess Chimay, wants to get in the limelight again.

He has written to the World's Fair management, stating that, having enjoyed such publicity as once beat so furiously upon his brow, he ought to be nothing less than an irresistible attraction at the Fair.

FAMILY AWAKENED BY SHOT OF DEATH

Wife and Five Children Find Man Dying in Front Room of His Home.

While his wife and five children were sleeping, Thomas Simpson of 316 Brantner place shot himself at 6 o'clock this morning.
The shot awakened the family, and the eldest daughter, Anna, found her father dying in the front room. He had placed the revolver in his mouth and fired. The bullet punctured the brain and came out to Clayton, and they were compelled to return a considerable part of the distance they had already traveled in order to get a Clayton-bound car.

They were yet to meet with new embarrassments in the shape of inquiring friends, who were on the second car. As the car neared the county seat, these men, who were not among the guests, asked them to discuss the hour, which was then 11 o'clock, and the fact that Clayton, the nearest station, was the destination to which the car was moving.

Mr. Scott replied to the galleries of his friends by pointing to Miss Johnston's face and saying that they were going to the Country Club.

While telling this fib, the young man was earnestly hoping that his friends on the car were not going as far as the club.
But he was disappointed to find the friends not only rode as far as the club, but some of them were headed for the club itself.

Took Roundabout
Country Road.

It remained then for the couple to leave the car and go into the clubhouse to make good their bluff. At the club they partook of a meal, and then managed to excuse themselves as graciously as they could under the circumstances, and after slipping from the clubhouse they resumed their journey to Clayton.

At this time they traveled by foot, and not wishing to take the slightest chance or meet any further obstacles, they walked in the opposite direction until a cross road was reached. The night was dark and the roads rough, but they made their way in a roundabout route to the Clayton courthouse. It was nearing the hour of 1 when they nervously approached the grim-joking structure.

After a hasty search, they succeeded in finding two men, Mr. Cook and Mr. Seibert, and with some effort induced him to issue the much-coveted document. Then they walked on, but he refused to have his slumber disturbed, and with the words
"I am not a popularity ring in the courtroom," he passed out another. They finally ran up to the sheriff, Rev. J. M. Stutz, who had consented to perform the ceremony.

When they reached the Johnston home, Mr. Scott was met by Mrs. Johnston with ready forgiveness. The couple will remain temporarily at the Johnston home. Mr. Scott is connected with an electric chair concession at the World's Fair. He is 26 years old and his bride is a half dozen years younger.

Indicate General and Enthusiastic Co-operation to Boom St. Louis Day at Fair.

500,000 ATTENDANCE AIMED AT

Many Large Stores Will Not Only Close, but Will Give Employees Tickets.

The executive committee having in charge the arrangements for St. Louis day at the World's Fair, Sept. 15, has received many additions to the list of firms that will close their establishments on that day.

In its efforts to record an attendance of 500,000 or even more the St. Louis day committee is leaving nothing undone. There are about 40,000 business men in St. Louis and in the various stores a large number of the business men will receive a letter signed by Mayor Wells and the chairman of the committee, urging him to "close up" on St. Louis day and allow his employees to go to the Fair.

These firms have already agreed to close on St. Louis day and in addition promise their employees tickets: A. Zelnicker & Co., N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co., W. H. Newcomb, W. H. Newcomb & Son, W. H. Newcomb & Son, Merchants' Exchange, Whitelaw Brothers, Crane Co., Layton Pure Food Co., Brown Shoe Co., Union Pure Continental Tobacco Co., Simons Hardware Co., Giesen & Gensch-Hays Shoe Co., Adam Roth, Grocer Co., Ely-Walter Dry Goods Co., Warren & Son, St. Louis Dry Goods Co., Wertheimer-Swartz Shoe Co., Sultan Drug Co., Banner Buggy Co., Woodward & Frazee, Frazee & Woodward, Frazee & Co., M. J. Steele Manufacturing Co., Norwell-Simpson Hardware Co., Butler Brothers, Hunckins-Wells, Limb, and Company, Mississippi Glass Co., John Dore Ploy Co., Dore, Fuerborn Coal Co., Kingsland Manufacturing Co., Donk Brothers Co. and Coke Co., Frazee & Woodward, Frazee & Co., Rich Six Dry Goods Co., Carlton Dry Goods Co., Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., Schlesinger & Co., Frazee & Woodward, Frazee Dry Plate Co., Levin-Zukowski Mercantile Co., Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, Grand-Leader, Barrs, Nugents, and Famous Co., and C. E. Hills Shoe Co.

Enthusiastic Letters Written

C. H. Tucker, secretary and treasurer of the St. Louis celebration that Mr. J. down for the day and send its employees to the Fair.

"Surely, with the eyes of the entire world on the city at the present time," said Mr. Tucker, "it behoves all of us to bend every effort to make the day a success and I feel satisfied that every employee will do his best to attend the Fair."

There is a more enthusiastic supporter of the St. Louis day celebration than Mr. J. W. Van Cleave, vice-president and general manager of the Buck Stove and Range Company.

The Exposition is essentially St. Louis," says Mr. Van Cleave. "Every citizen is interested in its success from every standpoint. It would be the failure on behalf of all the people, no matter whether the individual is or is not connected with it or not. Therefore, I down for the day and will utilize the opportunity to call all manufacturers and employers to a discussion of the Exposition and the people of the country that it is our Exposition, our hospitality, our city."

"Must Open on Sunday."

"The masses of working people cannot afford to lose more time than this one day to attend the Exposition. A working man earning $3 a day, should he take his wife or child, it would cost at least $1.50 for one day. This added to the loss of one day's earnings would equal $4.50 per day. Apply this to the factory and office employees of this city working by the day, and you have the sum of $270,000 lost to this class without taking into consideration the loss of the working people."

"I earnestly urge that everybody, especially all working people, insist that the Exposition be opened on Sunday during the last two months of the Fair. The two very desirable ends—enable the mechanics of the city and their families to see the marvellous work of the Fair, without loss of wages and increase the net revenue of the Exposition company more than half a million dollars in two months. I fully appreciate the reasoning of the Exposition in closing and elevating. It is all good; it is all good; it is a practical business sense, all men and women better men and women."

T. S. McPhee, president of the Mechanics' Warehouse Co., writes the commissioners that the top business houses and manufacturers will readily oblige the request to make Sept. 15 a general holiday.

"It seems to me," he says, "that there is no way in which we can more truly show our civic pride than by closing up and urging all of our business men to attend the Fair. The directors and officers of the Fair who have borne the head and burden of the work in the matter of giving to us this marvellous work of art, seem to me entitled to the co-operation of their fellow-citizens, thus showing to them our appreciation of their labor of love. We cannot hope to establish a great and beautiful city except as we are willing to contribute to the work who are at the helm guiding the civic life."

Cancer, tumor, sores, goitre, rheumatism, hydrocele and varicocele. Dr. B. F. Tomlin, 1758 Chouteau avenue.

Deaf Mutes Enjoy Ball.

Deaf mutes attending the deaf mute convention at the World's Fair were guests of the Missouri Building at Chouteau and Thirteenth street, St. Louis.

About five hundred deaf persons attended this ball, which was given by the National Association of the Deaf in honor of visiting deaf mutes.

FRENCH ENVOY TO THE WORLD'S FAIR TO SAIL SATURDAY

Wireless Messages to the Post-Dispatch Tell of Coming of M. Alfred Picard and the Organization of an Association by Exhibitors.

Via American De Forest Wireless Telegraph.

POST-DISPATCH BUREAU, WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 24.—M. Alfred Picard, envoy extraordinary to the World's Fair from the French government, will sail from Havre on board the Savoie Saturday.

His private secretaries, M. Henrotin and M. Delaunay-Belleville, will accompany him.

M. Delaunay-Belleville is the son of the honorable president of the Chamber of Commerce of France. His father was connected with the Paris exposition of 1900 and has friends among the exposition officials who will give him a glad welcome for his father's sake.

M. Picard's coming is also awaited with pleasure by Exposition dignitaries who attended the Paris exposition.

In his party will also be M. Maurice Estien, treasurer of the French commission. M. Estien is the father of Marcel Estien, who has been in St. Louis since last December as a member of the French commission. M. Marcel Estien will depart in a few days for New York, where he will meet his father.

POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR BUREAU, Aug. 24.—Cool weather, a grand parade of firemen and fire apparatus from St. Louis and surrounding cities, and celebrations by Missouri towns and one Illinois town, made Wednesday one of the great days of the World's Fair.

At 8 o'clock when the pay gates opened, the crowd at the Lindell entrance filled the great plaza outside. It did not diminish throughout the morning, although six thousand of visitors took up their seats as fast as they could work.

Many of the visitors were telling the town from which they came, and were present particularly to cheer their home ladies who were to march.

The firemen's parade started from the Administration building at 10:30 o'clock.

Twenty pieces of apparatus of the St. Louis department, including engines, chemicals and hook and ladder apparatus, under the leadership of Chief Swingley of St. Louis and Chief Christie of the World's Fair department, led the column.

Other companies participating were the Columbia Hose Company of Whitehouse, N. Y.; the Spencer Hose Company of North Carolina, the Arcola, Ill., hose and ladder team, and teams from Edwardsville, Bunker Hill, Girard, Morrison, Harvey, Dixon and Clayton, Ill., Corning and Neola, Io., Neosho, St. Charles, Cartersville and Joplin, Mo., and Waco, Tex.

Besides the men on the apparatus 500 firemen marched on foot and the chiefs attended the firemen's tournament ride in carriages.

At 1 o'clock the firemen's contest began in the Stadium. Of the towns holding special exercises, Bunker Hill had the most elaborate program.

Illinois building held 1000 people from Bunker Hill. They had a band with them and at noon enjoyed a basket picnic on the grounds south of the Fine Arts building.

Wednesday evening they will have exercises at the Illinois building, at which C. J. Doyle, custodian of the building, will make an address. They will leave for home at 12 o'clock tonight.

The Missouri towns which send delegations were Kirkwood, Eureka, Allentown, Jefferson City, Sedalia, Warrensburg, Pleasant Hill, Independence, California, Verona, Butler, Carthage, Center View, Harrisonville, Holden, Lee's Summit, Rich Hill, Washington and Sweet Springs.

No special exercises were held, but the Missouri building was headquarters for the delegations.

POST-DISPATCH WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 24.—An unsuccessful attempt to pass steel discs for money at the Pyrmont camp this morning was made by a visitor who tried to pass the Pyrmont camp as a chief clerk of the division of works in charge. Director of Works Taylor brought him to the Pyrmont camp and he was turned over to the police. The city will take the case to a higher court.

President Donnelly returned today from Indianapolis where he saw leaders of the miners' union. He says he is confident this union will aid the strikers.

SUIT OVER CHILD REVEALS WEDDING

Mrs. Mary E. Lucas Scudder Secretly Married William G Boyce Month After Divorce.

ASKS DAUGHTER'S CUSTODY

Fact of Remarriage of Young Society Woman Brought Out in Her Petition.

The marriage of Mrs. Mary E. Lucas Scudder, who was divorced from her husband, Rogers V. Scudder, at Clayton, April 19, to William D. Boyce within a month after her divorce, has been revealed through a petition filed in the Circuit Court at Clayton by Mrs. Boyce, asking a modification of the divorce decree to give her the custody of the 8-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and caused much surprise in St. Louis society circles, where the parties are prominently known, and where the second marriage was practically unknown. Mrs. Scudder married Mr. Boyce May 2.

In her petition for a modification of the decree, which she filed under the name of Scudder, Mrs. Boyce charges that the child is compelled to perform menial labor in Eureka Springs, Ark., and that she is not properly cared for. This charge is denied by Mrs. Scudder, who says the child is merely spending the summer at Eureka Springs with her mother, and that she is receiving the best of care. The further charge that the child is not receiving the best of care is also denied by Mr. Scudder.

At the time the divorce was granted there was no question of the parties agreeing to all the details of the separation. By the terms of the written agreement the father was to have the custody of the child, provided except during the Christmas and Easter holidays. The father was to keep the child in the Visitation Court during the school year, and vice versa.

Mrs. Scudder-Boyce now alleges that she thought when she signed the agreement that the child would be with her during the school year only during the school year, and that she was to have the child during the vacations. She says she has given the boy and girl every care for the child. She asks the decree be modified to grant this, being willing, however, to allow the father to visit the child. She says,

More Ticket Brokers Arrested.

Six more ticket brokers were arrested by the police yesterday at the hands of railroad validating agents, who had received complaints, they said, from persons who had purchased "World's Fair" excursion tickets the previous day as unacceptable. Eleven ticket brokers and clerks were arrested last Saturday on a similar charge. Those arrested yesterday were L. Newmark, Fred Mcchner, Gus Neetle, Michael Greenburg, David Stein and John W. Platt.

IRELAND IS PAYING FRANCE HER DEBT FOR ST. PATRICK; M. GERALD PART PAYMENT

About This Irish-Frenchman There Are Also Strong Traits of German and American.

LIKE ROOSEVELT IN PROFILE

But His Mustachios Suggest Emperor Wilhelm or Dr. Lewald, Which-ever You Know Better.

BY ROSE MARION.

CHARMANT?

"Tres joli!"

"Equis!"

"Une belle Exposition!"

Thus exclaimed France's new commissioner-general, Georges Gerald, the man with the Irish name and the Kaiser Wilhelm mustachios.

He had looked upon the Exposition for the first time four hours before, and as yet had had no view of it by electric light.

"To me it is a great surprise," he explained. "It is one thousand times more wonderful than I expected. I have seen many pictures of the Fair, but they were only photographs, uncolored. The real is marvelous."

Quickly he recounted his day—call upon President Francis, a visit to the Manufactures and Transportation palaces, a review of the horse parade, his visit to the French building, where he received Mrs. Francis as the guest of honor and presented her with a bouquet of flowers from the French gardens.

Prettily he dwelt upon his pleasure at the sight of the French pavilion. "Une vraie bijou," he termed it, which is French for truly a jewel."

All the time I listened and vainly endeavored to classify this new addition to our World's Fair guests.

Long before I saw him I'd been saying "Cead mille failte" over to myself, confident that a man with the name of Gerald would understand these words.

They were never said.

What's the use of talking Gaelic to a man that will be called "doctor" the first time he goes near "Das Deutsche Haus" on the hill?

Dr. Lewald has now a rival who will keep him busy identifying himself until the Fair is done.

Those that hear not the sound of Commissioner-General Gerald's voice will call him the German commissioner without prompting, and Dr. Lewald will have to pose as somebody else.

Incidentally, President Roosevelt is warned that there is just enough resemblance between himself and the French commissioner-general to make things a bit interesting, should the President come to St. Louis.

ROOSEVELT PROFILE.

Commissioner Gerald wears his reddish brown hair clipped rather close in the back. Also he wears glasses. When his face is turned from you he suggests the President. Especially when he wears a silk hat.

A full-face view takes away the resemblance. The commissioner's mustache is red and long and it turns up at the ends as does the pictured one of the Emperor Wilhelm.

His eyes are Irish, but he keeps them hid behind his glasses, except when he is much interested. Then they have their own fun in an Irish way. Some day these eyes will run things entirely.

Rest of the summer clothes are going quickly. Better hurry up. $11.75, $12.50, $13.50 for fine fancy Worsted Back Suits that were $22.50 and $25.

Great Business at the Theaters

For the first time since the World's Fair opened, the theatrical business in St. Louis is something like expectations of it—optimistic expectations of it.

The theaters are doing a great business this week. Some of the performances have enjoyed even crowded houses ever since the weather cooled. Frank Daniels' opening performance at the Olympic Sunday night was the biggest he has ever had in St. Louis since 1900.

"The summer famine is over," said a student of the local theatrical situation this morning.

If the next three months are not the biggest in the history of St. Louis theatricals this will be a wilderness of disappointment out of the dismal swamps of which will come walls that would melt the heart of an oak. Samia H. H. is here in advance of "Mother Goose," and who will be joined here tomorrow by the mechanics who place the machinery and stretch the wires for the Grigolos ballet flights, says that the big extravaganza must pack the Olympic from night to night if the engagement is to be a success. It is the biggest of all the Klaw & Erlanger productions brought over from the Drury Lane Theater at London, and what with its hundreds of people, its elaborate ballet and wealthy of scenery, its expenses on tour will be enormous. "Mother Goose" begins a run of four weeks here Sept. 5.

Miss Blanche Bates and "The Darling of the Gods" are now in the fourth week of their engagement at the Temple. Miss Bates has installed herself firmly in the hearts of both the local and the visiting public, and the audience here is daily flooded with requests for autograph and pictures. These requests come principally from the girls, who are to be found in smaller places and who, as a rule, do not have an opportunity to witness the performances presenting the magnitude which characterizes "The Darling of the Gods."

The sale of seats for the second week of "Buster Brown," "The Virgin Papar," at the Century and Frank Daniels in "The Office Boy" at the Olympic opens tomorrow morning.

"Buster Brown," which is said to be one of the funniest of all the funny shows, opens Saturday at 8 o'clock. The sale of seats opens tomorrow morning. Buster has been entertaining the people of Chicago for some time and his audience here is a success of a success of it. The part of Buster is played by Master Gabriel, a clever midget actor, who is the son of the famous dog Tiger, and if the performance meets expectations it will be laughs enough to fatten all the children from 3 to three score years old.

Coming to the Irishman next week: Francis and Byron, Lew Sullis, Corrigan Trio, Morrissey, Rich and Williams, the mermaids Sisters, Kelsi and Sterling, the Lovins, Delmore and Darrell, Maceo and Jordan, a. K. Caldera and Williams and Jordan.

The 125th performance of the Delmar Garden "Louisiane" was given this morning. The big beauty show is doing its fine business now, and the management does not intend to let the weather shall end its career. When the rains become cool for the performances at the garden the now delightfully cool theater at the garden the weather becomes cool again.

The cast of the piece has changed in May, but none of the principals carry on their artistry with the regular traveling companies now starting upon the road.

Eastern journals have given you the same treatment they gave the Chicago Fair. That will not avail always. The people will come to you in crowds in the autumn."

For a minute we talked of weather. I was so proud of the beautiful ozone day that Mr. Bowles and the weather bird have created lately that I almost forced the subject.

"But this is an exception, is it not?" I asked M. Gerald. And for a second I thought I saw the shadow of a Hibernian doubt.

POLICEMAN STUTIE, WHO RESCUED BOY FROM LAKE

POLICEMAN... YOUTH FROM L.

Little Johnnie Demey Says Big Boys in Carondelet Park Threw Him In.

HE HAD GONE UNDER TWICE

Declares He Thought of Many of His Misdeeds in Those Months.

John Demey, 12 years old, son of Mrs. Nellie Demey of 127 South Third street, is very thankful that he is alive today and able to tell his experience of being nearly drowned and then being rescued. He remembers nothing of the rescue, but recalls distinctly the many thoughts which passed through his mind as he was going under the water the first and second times.

Johnnie was spending Tuesday with a crowd of boys from the La Salle street playground at a picnic at Carondelet park, when he was pushed into the lake, and would have drowned had not Patrolman Frank Stutie jumped into the lake, which was 15 feet deep, and rescued him.

BY JOHN DEMEY.

PLAY down at the La Salle street playgrounds, and the boys have lots of picnics, but my mother would never let me go, because she was afraid something would happen to me.

But yesterday there was a big crowd going, and she said I could go to Carondelet Park, because it would be my last chance before school starts. She told me I must not go in the water, and I told her I wouldn't. But some big boys at the lake didn't know where I was, and took all my clothes off and pushed me into the lake.

I can't swim. I think every boy ought to know how to swim, and I'm going to learn just as soon as I get a chance. But when I struck the water I couldn't swim, and went down. The water got in my nose and mouth, and when I came up again I was pretty much out.

Tuesday morning when Josiah Scott started to his work—he was a watchman at the Columbian building at Eighth and Locust streets—he was in the heat of spirit, and he was uncomfortable, and he had nothing in particular to worry about.

Mr. Scott's two little daughters read during the morning and started for the Fair. They stayed all day, and it was dark when they got home. They went to the St. Louis Eighth street station.

When Mrs. Scott opened the front door she was almost overcome by the smell of Charles French, a neighbor, and he came over to investigate.

He had a bed in a front room upstairs they found Josiah Scott. He was unconscious and seemingly dead. A physician was called, and he was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Scott was 43 years of age. He usually reached home about 10 o'clock at night. Every time I had played hooky from school I thought of Charles French, and when I came up again I didn't know what he had been doing.

The first thing I knew they had me on the grass by the lake and there was a policeman there. I thought he was going to pull me out. I'm glad he did, because I thought I was dead. Pretty soon I could walk and then I came home.

I can't swim. I'm going to learn how to swim.

GIANT PUGS PUT ON LAST TOUCHES

Jeffries and Munroe in Prime Condition for Their Battle Friday Night.

M'Coy IS STILL CONFIDENT

Butte Miner Has Profited by the Fine Points of the "Kid's" Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 24.—Jeffries and Munroe are ready and fit for battle. The condition of both men is perfect and neither will have an excuse to offer when they step into the arena Friday night to contest for the heavyweight championship.

Never have men trained more faithfully nor with better results. The trainers are delighted with their men and are boasting of their condition.

The coming of "Kid" McCoy has added weight to the battle to the big go. This was really lacking in this city until the "Kid" arrived on the scene. The moment he boxed with Munroe, and the husky miner began to profit by the advice given him by the clever Hoosier, the wise ones spread the news that Jack had a good chance to win. This feeling has grown until now there are many who will wager that Jeff will not win in less than 20 rounds.

That the battle will be a slashing one is assured. Both men are determined to show the other up and neither will retreat. When these giants bump the fur will fly.

The sale of seats is unusually large and the fight promoters are happy. Every one is talking fight and the best people in the country will see the heavyweights in action.

Munroe Quits Road Work.

Munroe cut out his road work yesterday and boxed in private. He boxed nine of the fastest rounds of his career and surprised and delighted his trainers by his splendid showing and condition. Harry Foley tried every plan at his command and none of them worked. Munroe boxed nicely and also some in a clever counter. Foley was tired at the end of two rounds, and Harry Chester, a promising heavyweight, took some grueling for two rounds. Munroe did fast foot work with Chester as the latter moved like a shadow.

Then came McCoy. The "Kid" was in the teeth and he tore loose. He never let up on Munroe, and Jack was in him like a hawk. The "Kid" tried trick punches, straight lefts, hooks and uppercuts, landing often, but being countered in a fashion that he did not like. Munroe was determined to show McCoy that he had profited by his lessons and his teacher was delighted.

Munroe Is Down to 212.

This ends Munroe's work. He will go out on the road today for sprints and rest up in the afternoon. Thursday evening he will begin to dry out. He now weighs 212 pounds and expects to enter the ring weighing 210 pounds.

Jeffries was up bright and early and sprang out on the fine roads of Oakland. On his return he immediately entered the gymnasium and boxed four rounds with Joe Kennedy, both of a select few. Jeffries' fine crowds were gathered to witness before curious spectators. He hammered the bag and did other stunts.

In the afternoon he was on the road again and also rowed on Lake Merritt. His condition is perfect and he will do no more hard work. Jeff still refuses to give out his weight, but it is understood that Bill Delaney, Jean Van Court, Joe Kennedy and Jack Jeffries. He does not like the prevailing odds and wants 2 to 1 for his money.

Munroe will be seconded by McCoy, Tim McGrath, Frank McDonald and Tim Sullivan.

The Empires defeated Bremers Sunday by the score of 10 to 5. Empires will like to play from Hart's or Clary's. The Empires will play Thompsons Sunday. For games with Empires address, J. Goldbach, 1732 Elliot avenue.

DREAD OF HUMANITY

I am compelled by a sense of gratitude to tell you that my wife has been saved. She has done well in a case of contagious blood poisoning. Among other symptoms I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism, and got almost past going. The disease got a firm hold upon my system; my blood was thoroughly poisoned with the virus. I lost in weight, was run down, had sore throat, eruptions, sores and other evidences of the disease. I was truly in a bad shape when I began the use of S. S. S., but the persistent use of it brought me out of my trouble safe and sound, and I have the courage to publicly testify to the virtues of your great product, S. S. S. I am sure to recommend it to all blood poisoning sufferers, sincerely believing if it is taken according to directions, and given a fair trial, it will thoroughly eliminate every part and particle of the virus.

Back View of Jack Munroe, Showing the Miner's Powerful Shoulder Muscles

Pugilist Jack Munroe strips for the Post-Dispatch artist and shows himself to be in the pink of condition to battle Jeffries for the world's championship in San Francisco Friday night.

This picture shows Munroe's powerful physique, the steel-like muscles of his shoulders and the great biceps of his arms with which he expects to wrest the championship from Jeffries and become premier pugilist of the world.

KID MCCOY THINKS MUNROE WILL WIN

Declares Jeffries Is a Mountain of Flesh and That the Miner Will Drive Him to the Tall Brush and Be the Next Champion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—"Kid" McCoy is of the opinion that Jack Munroe will be champion heavyweight boxer of the world. The astute Indiana boxer made this statement before a bunch of boxing devotees, and backs it up in this manner.

"Jeffries will soon have to take to the tall brush, because his increasing weight will force him there. When last I saw Jeff he looked like a mountain. I know from experience that men cannot continually run off with less without losing his weight. I do not know how much Jeff weighs at this time, but if he weighs he will not go into the ring weighing less than 200 pounds.

"I think Munroe will be champion for many reasons. First, and most important of all, is that he possesses true grit. I saw him in his battle with Sharkey, and it assured me he was courageous. I hit him as hard as I know how, and he has always come back for more. Secondly, he has a cool head and will listen to advice. If Jeffries makes any mistakes Munroe will be there to 'cop' him. Munroe is a big, strong fellow.

"Jeff will not have an easy time with the miners. Munroe will stop every blow to blood, and he will stop every blow to blood. He has the proper material in him to be a champion, and even if he does not stop Jeffries, he will stop him, for Jeffries is not afraid of him. He has tasted Jeff's punishment and knows that he can annihilate lots of it.

"Jeffries will be a mountain of flesh and that the miner will drive him to the tall brush and be the next champion."

"YOUNG FITZ" TO FIGHT M'ILVANEY

Will Meet in 8-Round Bout at 124 Pounds at the West End Club on Friday Night.

The curtain-riser at the West End Club Friday night will be a six-round bout between "Young" Fitzsimmons and "Kid" McIlvane. The weight agreed upon is 124 pounds. "Fitz" has shown his knockout wallop on a number of occasions at the West End Club, and is gradually forcing his way to the front. McIlvane is reported clever and is also there with a punch.

The club management has pursued the policy during the summer months of endeavoring to bring out all the local talent. As a result "Young" Fitz and "Kid" Trennel are boys who have attracted a great deal of attention.

It looks like Trennel has the right kind of material in him. He is up against a tough proposition when he meets "Nick" McIlvane. Trennel will be sent right along after the best boys in the country at his weight.

Biggest West of the Mississippi.

The newspaper that misrepresents World's Fair conditions in St. Louis is not only unpatriotic; it is dishonest.

While the packing-house strikers think of appealing to the public for funds, Armour wins $1,000,000 in the wheat pit.

The Shakespeare Society has done well to consider King Lear in so rainy an August. It is the dampest of all the great dramatist's productions.

The famous band of the Republican guard of Paris is coming to St. Louis. There will surely be music in the air of the glorious Missouri autumn.

If a wrestling match for the vice-presidency between Henry Davis and Charlie Fairbanks were to be pulled off, does anybody doubt which would win?

An appropriate World's Fair exhibit of what some states have done for the elevation and enlightenment of the negro would be a rope and a bonfire.

IGNORANCE REGARDING THE FAIR.

The letters from Post-Dispatch readers on World's Fair attendance are developing the fact that lamentable ignorance prevails in many parts of the country as to the superlative attractiveness of this international Exposition. Mr. Winfred Smith of Rochester, N. Y., says: "There is no enthusiasm in this city of about 200,000 inhabitants and the railroad ticket offices report that only about seven tickets each day are being sold."

He attributes this apathy to lack of the right kind of publicity.

But there is not only gross ignorance in many parts of the country regarding the Fair's attractions, there is positive misinformation. The people believe that a separate admission is charged to each of the World's Fair buildings; that rates for rooms and meals are unreasonably high; that the weather is uncomfortably hot, etc.

Unless this condition is overcome, it will be impossible to bring the attendance up to what it should be. The most valuable suggestions are those touching the right kind of publicity for the American people to make to see just what the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is, and what treatment they may expect in St. Louis, they will flock to the Fair. Determined, intelligent, well-organized effort along these lines will achieve gratifying results.

The Galveston sea wall has been completed and the plucky Texas city will soon be protected from the gulf by an extension which will reach the full extent of the city limits. There is a good deal of the right kind of strenuousness in Texas.

LIVING IN GLASS HOUSES.

On May 20, 1904, President Roosevelt informed the nations of the western hemisphere that if they acted with decency in industrial matters, kept order and paid their debts they need fear no interference from the United States.

The doings in Georgia, Colorado and Chicago—are they characterized by decency and good order?

No sharper comment upon Mr. Roosevelt's undignified warning to the people of Spanish America could be conceived than is in those localities.

To live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones. Unless in our own jurisdictions are we likely to cut the figure doing police duty abroad?

Domestic duties on hand which will keep us busy at home which must be solved before we should try to those belonging to other nations.

And your own business—it is a good rule of justice, as apply to public as well as to private relations. A nation so guided will not come to harm.

It was announced in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch that at least nine of the large business and manufacturing establishments have signified their intention to close for the entire day, on St. Louis Day, and to present their employees with admission tickets for the Fair. It is to be hoped that the movement will spread until it covers practically every employer of labor. Make St. Louis Day a complete holiday, so that everyone who is physically able may have the opportunity to swell the St. Louis Day crowd. Some work will have to be done, but every able-bodied St. Louisian should have the opportunity to pass into the Exposition playgrounds at some time during this greatest of holidays.

A PLAYGROUND FOR EVERY WARD.

At the meeting held Monday night, when the Mullanphy playground was accepted by the city, Capt. Joseph Boyes, representing the mayor, said: "I think it is the duty of the city to provide a playground for every ward in the city."

The acceptance of this playground by the city marks the beginning of a new era in the playgrounds movement. It makes this playground, at least, a permanent breathing spot, a municipal park, in a neighborhood sadly in need of such parks. It marks the rise of municipal interest in the movement for the creation of more downtown parks, which are one of the greatest needs of the city.

The public-spirited women who started the playgrounds movement, and the Civic Improvement League, which has ably carried on a branch of it, are to be congratulated on its growing success. In continuing the good work, it is to be hoped that all jealousy will be laid aside and that a united body will be formed, so that all concerned may work harmoniously and heartily in support of a noble public service. The public is not interested so much in the question as to who began this movement as in the success of the movement itself.

And the financial side of the problem must not be lost sight of. The creation of playgrounds for the children in the crowded districts is a legitimate municipal duty. It ought not to be dependent upon charity. As soon as possible, the city should be in charge of this work. Its complete success means a distinct benefit to the city and its attendant cost to the community and a

NEW YORK WORLD'S EDITORIAL TODAY

MR. PARKER AND THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The most important test of the Democratic managers in New York is the choice of a candidate for governor. Nothing now left for them to do will so vitally affect the reputation of the party and Mr. Parker's prospect.

Where is the man to be found of sufficient mental culture, intellectual resources and public reputation to measure up to the standard set by Mr. Roosevelt in his preference for Elihu Root as the Republican candidate for governor? The World frankly confesses that it does not know, and to judge by the names thus far suggested nobody knows.

But one thing we do know, there ought to be no such candidate as the Democratic party has had in each of the last eight elections. Since the Cleveland campaign of 22 years ago the boss or bosses in control of the party organization have been a curse to the Democratic voters with a series of cheap politicians whose nominal leadership was a blistering reflection upon the intelligence or virtue of the citizens who accepted it.

David B. Hill was perhaps a qualified exception. He has a disciplined though narrow mind, a thorough knowledge of machine politics, the strength and weakness of a man with one passion, lacking imagination and moral sensibility. He nominated himself for governor twice and was twice elected. He allowed Croker to nominate him a third time and was overwhelmingly defeated. He was as governor a fox to graft and grab and did the state some service. But his politics was always subterranean and selfish, and he lacked the broadness and the wisdom to call the string of men of the party to his support.

Hill and Croker together nominated Roswell P. Flower for governor, a man who could not write a grammatical sentence, but who had the money to secure Croker and through him the nomination.

In 1888, when Robert B. Van Wyck, the most corrupt and incompetent mayor New York has known since the Tweed ring, was scandalizing the party in this city, Croker, with Hill's acquiescence, nominated Augustus Van Wyck for governor. No grosser insult to public decency could have been conceived. Augustus Van Wyck was personally more respectable than his brother, but his election at such time would not only have removed a necessary check upon the local misgovernment of his brother, but would have greatly increased it. Yet such was the vitality of the Democratic party that this candidate came within 18,000 votes of being elected. Manifestly a decent nomination then would have buried Roosevelt, and there would have been no rough rider presidential campaign to follow.

Yet such was the vitality of the Democratic party that this candidate came within 18,000 votes of being elected. Manifestly a decent nomination then would have buried Roosevelt, and there would have been no rough rider presidential campaign to follow.

Two years later Hill nominated Stanchfield, a cheap country politician, the defender of Broome's record in the Elmira reformatory; an advocate of imprisonment, the most of everything but Democratic leadership could be.

In 1892 there was every prospect of Democratic victory. Judge Parker was willing to accept the nomination. The convention wanted him unanimously. He would have been elected. With his record as governor he would have become as well known to the country as Tilden was in 1876, and would have entered the presidential campaign with the great advantage of a record of positive achievements to his credit.

But Hill had White House hopes himself at that time. He did not want a candidate of presidential size, so he nominated Coler, a person small enough to make Hill absolutely sure that he could control him, and against whom even Odell managed to scrape out a victory by 3000 plurality.

The trouble through all these 20 years has been that the Democratic party has never once nominated a candidate of its own. Its nominations have been made for it by a few bosses like Hill, Croker and McLaughlin. And as long as this method of choice continues it never will get a candidate of the right caliber, for the bosses never will nominate a man whom they do not expect to be their tool. In its internal organization the party of the people has been an oligarchy.

Why not let the Democrats this year make its own nomination? Why not ask Hill, Sheppard, McCarron and even Judge Parker to stand aside and leave the election to a free convention?

THE CLUBWOMAN'S VIEWS

By THE SOCIETY GIRL

"And out in Colorado a lot of miners terrorized the citizens, and then a mob ran the miners out of town. The citizens and the mob were the same people. It seems that a Peaceful Citizen is a man who is attacked and turns the other cheek—or his back. But if the Peaceful Citizen calls in a few of the neighbors and assumes the aggressive, he is a mob."

"Then, up in Chicago several persons have been killed in strike riots, and out in Omaha a hearse bearing a little girl's body was stoned because her father hadn't struck. When I was young we were taught that to be safe after death we must accept the gospel, but the requirement now seems to be that one must join a union."

"Down in Georgia they have been burning negroes at the stake. The Georgia governor arrived at the Fair the day the negroes were burned, and he said he was going right back. But he didn't. He stayed a week. Of course, those heavy rains must have put out the fires, so I suppose there really was no hurry. Besides, Mr. Brown said the governor probably wanted to inspect the Georgia exhibit—what the state had done for the enlightenment of the negro, and so forth."

"These surely are troublous times in the United States, but Mr. Brown says there's one comfort—all's quiet along the Potomac."

"What does he mean?" asked the Society Girl.

"Mr. Roosevelt is still at Oyster Bay."

"But why?" asked the Society Girl, "did the Far East war remind you of our troubles?"

"I was wondering," said the Club Woman, "why the papers don't call some of their war correspondents home."

THE DETERMINED PHOTOGRAPHERS WHO FINALLY GOT A PICTURE OF GOV. FRANCIS

"I see, McDonald, as how they've finally got a photograph iv' Prisident Francis," said Casey, resting upon the lawn mower with which he was shaving the face of his floral clock as his Scotch friend came up.

"I hadn't heard it, Caisey. Is it so?"

"Yis, they cornered him yesterday. Wan thousand' photographers participated in th' chase. They laid 'em in front iv' th' Administrashun buildin', McDonald. They armed themselves with everything fr'm kodaks to movie picture machines. They loaded them all to th' muzzle, an' sint Strauss an' some iv' th' big wangs' up to demand a surrender."

"David, will ye' come out an' face th' 'machines?' they called in to him."

"That I will not, an' bad 'cess to ye," cried th' prisident, as full iv' defiance as Joe Folk.

"'Diven help ye than,' they cried out to him, known' they had him sure an' layin' back awn their machines."

"It was a long sage, McDonald. It began in the furnace, an' it was still awn' after dinner. Th' prisident had business aroun' th' grounds, an' he was chasin' fr' to get out, but he paced his room an' face."

"'Givin' up I will not. I'm th' only great man since Alexander the Great,' he had not been photographed. Some wad I have them wonder how I looked when they seen a picture at me which ever way they turn."

"So he said, McDonald, an' it was not until four o'clock, when he thought hims asleep, that he slipped out av the 'Prisident Francis in th' Poolman iv th' train goin' to Europe." Page thros, "Prisident Francis iv' th' train at New York," Again, "Prisident Francis boardin' th' ship bound' fr' Europe." Again, "Prisident Francis art." Again, "Prisident Francis for." Again, "Prisident Francis for." Again, "Prisident Francis iv' th' ship in England." Again, "Prisident Francis waitin' to be admitted to th' prisence of King Edward sixth." Again, "Prisident Francis admitted." Again, "Prisident Francis in th' royal gardens with King Leopold iv' Belgium." Again, "Prisident Francis own the right side iv' th' king iv' Belgium." Again, "Prisident Francis own th' left side iv' th' king of Belgium." Again, "Prisident Francis an' President Loupav in France." Again, "Prisident Francis two feet in front to Prisident Loupav in France." Again, "Prisident Francis wan foot six inches." McDonald, Again, "Prisident Francis own th' brother bechune France an' Spain." Again, "Prisident Francis across th' brother." Again, "Prisident Francis by th' cradle iv' th' slaphin' King iv' Spain." And fin'ly, McDonald, awn th' last page, all by itself, a fine big picture entitl'd:

"Prisident Francis." "McDonald, I say, it's a fake book published by th' prisident's enemies. 'Ye are a liar,' says McGinnis, 'he published it himself.' And that was where we fell out. McDonald, myself and McGinnis, as had never fell out afore."

MRS. MAYBRICK NOT RELEASED FOR SUIT

Though That Was Original Ground of American Government's Intercession,
It Did Not Prevail.

WAS IN PRISON LONG ENOUGH

British Government Regards 15 Years as Equivalent to Life Service if Prisoner Is Well-Conducted.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Cablegram, Aug. 24, to the Post-Dispatch Co.)
LONDON, Aug. 24.—An American Chancery and the home secretary are absent on vacation, but the Post-Dispatch correspondent has ascertained authoritatively that the American embassy here represented to the British government that Mrs. Maybrick should be released to enable her to appear personally to prosecute her lawsuit in the United States.

The representations were not effective. Mrs. Maybrick was released because she had been a year and a half regarded as equivalent to a life sentence in the case of a well-conducted prisoner.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S EYES SO BAD SHE CANNOT READ

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—"I booked Mrs. Maybrick with Drs. Ingraham and her lawyer, Mr. Hansen, said Mr. Hansen, "because she needs absolute rest and quiet to restore her health. The name of Ingraham is an honored one in Mrs. Maybrick's family, her uncle the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, being a leading preacher in St. Louis."

"Mrs. Maybrick is unable to read because of her eyes, and spent practically all of her time in bed, reading only occasionally, and it will be months before her eyesight is restored. We have talked with Dr. Dr. C. W. Washington, C. S., who is aboard the boat and prescribes for Mrs. Maybrick's eyes, and he said they needed rest. Mrs. Maybrick's health is broken now, and she is far from being in the world."

"Since her release, Mrs. Maybrick has been followed everywhere she went, and the press has been extremely anxious about her. When she was coming from Rouen to Antwerp, she was followed by a curious crowd, mostly young men. In New York we have been besieged by friends and the curious, but all have been kindness itself."

"Mrs. Maybrick is very hopeful of the future. She is so far from being at long release that she can hardly contain herself; yet it is what she has confidently asserted for years past to be the case. If I had thought of poisoning my husband, why would I have put it in his meat broth, left it several hours, and then, when everybody could get it in plain sight of the nurses?" Mrs. Maybrick has frequently said to me.

"She asserted that the British government will yet grant her a full and free pardon, thus clearing her name of it in the past fifteen years. Our efforts to establish the innocence of Mrs. Maybrick will not cease."

Mrs. Maybrick left the Holland House today to visit the home of Dr. and Mrs. Denmans in the Catskills. The Denmans are old friends of both Mrs. Maybrick and her mother.

Resolutions on Senator Vest.

The American delegation of the World's Fair had a unanimous resolution of condolence on the death of the late Senator Vest at a meeting in President Francis' office. Senator Vest was a member of the Senate who helped to pass the first World's Fair legislation in Congress and he was always one of the heartiest supporters of the Exposition.

Limit your suggestions to two, in each letter, and do not exceed 250 words.

Ignorance in the East.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

My third and last is make every concession on the grounds 25 cents for adults and children 10 cents, and there will be no occasion for Prof. Cammeron doing his Sherlock Holmes stunt for life from the axle of the Ferris Wheel to the North Pole to try and draw a crowd. As St. Louis is the home of the workingman and the population is not composed of Astors, Bradley, Martin and Vanderbilts, and being a medium town, why not make it a 25-cent Fair?

will be expected to make the Fair a financial success.

My fourth and last is to make every concession on the grounds 25 cents for adults and children 10 cents, and there will be no occasion for Prof. Cammeron doing his Sherlock Holmes stunt for life from the axle of the Ferris Wheel to the North Pole to try and draw a crowd. As St. Louis is the home of the workingman and the population is not composed of Astors, Bradley, Martin and Vanderbilts, and being a medium town, why not make it a 25-cent Fair?

To Spread the News.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am sure that the lack of space devoted to the Fair by outside newspapers is largely accountable for low attendance at the grounds. St. Louis papers give a true and graphic account of what is going on and is to be seen here. Some papers, I fear, possibly will not help St. Louis through jealousy. In view of all this I say let the Exposition company order large numbers of St. Louis papers every day and scatter them broadcast through the land, so that they may reach people free of charge. I am sure that the right people will read them and be convinced that the Fair is worth going far to see and that extortion is not the practice. These are two facts that must be made known.

Even though the news in them would be "stale" people would read them just to find out what really is going on here.

More Editorials.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We suggest the World's Fair authorities arrange to have several editorials appear in all the leading secular and religious papers as well as magazines of the country on the Exposition, covering its educational and commercial value, as well as its social advantages, musical attractions, splendid shows, etc. Editorials are read by the best people and have much more influence than glaring headlines and advertisements appearing in the news and advertising columns.

THE MARATHON RACE

TRAIN STOPPED TO
SAVE DROWNING MAN

New Route, necessitated by Washouts, is one of the Hardest Ever Faced.

Washouts caused by recent rains have made it necessary to change the course for the Marathon race. An automobile party went over the route yesterday and the roads were found to be almost entirely washed away in some cases. A new course has been mapped out and it is one of the toughest distances, over which a long-distance race has been run.

The route that has been selected starts with a run of five miles to the Stadium. Then, leaving the Stadium, the route will pass over the following roads: Olympian way to Forney's boulevard, then over Meramec road, then turning into the road leading into Manchester road, going as far as Balas road, and then turn into Clayton road. From this point on the runners will take the Olive Street road to the North and South road, then turning into the Meramec road, will go along Forney's boulevard back to Olympian way and into the Stadium, where one-quarter of a mile will be run on the Stadium track.

To California by Daylight.

You pass through the most attractive scenery by daylight and stop over at Denver, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City, each from 18 to 24 hours, if you go to California "The Rock Island Way" on the special sleeping cars leaving Chicago and St. Louis Aug. 17 and 24. Round trip $60. Reserve berth early. F. J. Delbeck, General Agent.

Turverein Ladies' Euchre.

The ladies' section of the Southwest Turverein will give a euchre followed by a luncheon at their hall, Ohio avenue and Potomac street, Friday afternoon.
